

Typical Career Path Scenarios To Become An Interior Designer

INTERIOR DESIGNER'S BUSINESS SCHOOL

A course that is right for one person is not going to be right for another! These are two imaginary people in a different stage of life who want to become an interior designer. Knowing which course or path to take can be really challenging. Can you relate to one of these two people?

KNOW YOUR END GOAL

PERSON 1

PERSON 2

I want to work on large commercial projects such as shopping centres, municipal buildings and airports

I want to design people's houses and work on small domestic projects

ANALYSE YOUR EXISTING EXPERIENCE

I'm straight out of high school and/or have no previous work experience

I have a previous career or I have studied at university level

DECIDE ON YOUR INVESTMENT

I have time, am willing to invest money and/or want a fun, thorough understanding of interior design before heading out and finding work

I can't afford the time or money to go back and start a degree or work for someone else in order to climb the ranks

Do a university course or get a mentor

Do a vocational course or get a mentor

If you just want to study interior design for interest then do a short course
